World Karate Union Hall of Fame

2007 World Karate Union Hall of Fame, inductee our own Craig Hamm as Master of the Year - Freestyle Martial Arts.

The World Karate Union Hall Of Fame was established in 1996 as a means to honor Martial Artists for their unselfish contributions to the Martial Arts. While some names are more recognizable than others, all are desrving of respect and acknowledgement. Nominees are selected through ballots which are distributed throughout the United States, Europe, Russia, South America, Canada, the West Indies, & Australia.

2007 World Karate Union Hall of Fame
Shihan Craig Hamm
Master of the Year - Freestyle Martial Arts

2007 World Karate Union Hall of Fame, inductee our own Craig Hamm as Master of the Year - Freestyle Martial Arts.

The World Karate Union Hall Of Fame was established in 1996 as a means to honor Martial Artists for their unselfish contributions to the Martial Arts. While some names are more recognizable than others, all are desrving of respect and acknowledgement. Nominees are selected through ballots which are distributed throughout the United States, Europe, Russia, South America, Canada, the West Indies, & Australia.

The majority of inductees have been recommended directly by our Board Members and past inductees.

The criteria is based on excellence in the Martial Arts and tireless devotion to the community. If a candidate is nominated or recommended in a particular category and is found to be better suited in another category, the World Karate Union reserves the right to change nomination.